

LET is used solely for specification of computation time, communication may be constrained by additional timing requirements

LET intervals specify execution of runnables as well as all output data propagation

Specify interconnect SL-LET intervals based on existing system model

Set interconnect SL-LET intervals to zero or re-design SL-LET specification